This list is based on "Library Instruction Clearinghouse Agencies," compiled by Carolyn Kirkendall, Director, LOEX National Clearinghouse, Center of Educational Resources, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Michigan, in January 1980, and on "List of Library Instruction Clearinghouses and Directories," compiled by William Prince, Linda Lester, and James Ward for the ACRL Bibliographic Instruction Section's Committee on Cooperation, in 1978.

INTRODUCTION

At the 1978 American Library Association midwinter meeting of the ACRL Bibliographic Instruction Section's Committee on Cooperation, the idea of compiling a list of library instruction clearinghouses, directories, columns, and newsletters was initiated. A clearinghouse was defined as a center which collects library instructional materials for loan and/or on-site inspection. Newsletters and directories were included in the list if they were devoted exclusively to library instruction. The aim of the subgroup of the committee responsible for this task was to survey the existing or planned clearinghouses, and related publications in the United States, Canada, and selected other countries. The purpose of completing the list was to provide librarians with a resource for implementing or modifying their library instruction program and for developing a state/regional clearinghouse, newsletter, or directory appropriate to local instructional needs.

At the 1980 American Library Association midwinter meeting of the Committee on Cooperation, it was agreed to survey bibliographic instruction clearinghouses annually and to identify newsletters, columns, and directories. The following report is the result of a mail questionnaire administered during the spring of 1980 by Mary Huston-Miyamoto.
